*A whirlpool of Youth ... the movement of our times
Contradiction, conflict, controversy
Swirling madly in the sea of life*

Introduction	2
Student Life	12

Undergraduates	126
Seniors	142

*Days of bad trips and bummers
a time of grief and sorrow
Mixed with accomplishments
And of friendship never lost*

*Times of joy unbounding and of tears uncountable
Time for love found
Time for love lost*

who really cares

*Always mixing and enveloping minds, hearts and souls
Dissent, hypocrisy, prejudice Combine to form the whirlpool of youth*

Answers still unanswered questions still being questioned Dreams developing and growing ideas shaping, concepts forming

*We ask but for one understanding
An understanding of confusion
A plea to our world—to understand
OUR whirlpool of Youth . . .*

*For between the whirlpool and the rock
 The channel is a narrow one, and not without its Fickle tides and doldrums; and we who Once sailed too near the Scylla wonder often
 In the night, in the calm between two dreams, Whether we survived or perished there.*

over proofs, straining eyes to catch errors. The photographers deserve great recognition, as well. Most of them were also working on the yearbook, thus their load was doubled. Some of the photographers who helped us so much didn't even get credit for journalism. Thanks must go to all the understanding teachers who allowed students to miss a class or two to run an errand or get a story. We also salute news sources who patiently check accuracy in stories and tirelessly initialed them.

Above all, we wish to make special note of our devoted advisor Mr. Henry Sanders. Although times it seemed we never got to consult with him, he was the binding element for the paper. Mr. Sanders worked with us countless hours inside and out of school in order to produce a good newspaper and teach us the principles of journalism. Through the months we have been ever grateful for his guidance and aid.

Most of these people never received recognition for their efforts. However, without any one of them, the paper could not have been produced.

In looking back over our journalism experiences, the challenges, frustrations, and satisfaction of working on the newspaper have played an important role in the evolution of our "whirlpool of youth."

This year the Railsplitter newspaper won two of the highest national honors a high school newspaper can receive.

The Medalist was awarded by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association's 48th Annual Contest for newspapers and magazines in New York. Each school is entered in an enrollment classification to be compared with others of similar enrollment. Less than 10% of the entries in a given classification may receive Medalist distinction.

The Rail won its 13th consecutive All-American rating in the 85th All-American Critical Service of the National Scholastic Press Association. Student newspapers from across the nation were judged in groups divided by frequency of publication, school enrollment, and publication method. The Railsplitter received four out of a possible 5 Marks of Distinction in Content and Coverage, Writing and Editing, Physical Appearance, and Photography.

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," presented in April jointly by the Lincoln drama and music department, is a musical comedy based on the Charles Schulz comic strip. Although the show involves the lives of six children, the play is an excellent commentary on life and has great universality.

The audience was delighted with the riotous songs and lively dialogue in the show. The music and conversations combined to make the show a great success, enjoyed by all. The familiar Peanuts gang truly came to life and will not be soon forgotten.

Miss Carol Harms and Mr. John Whaley, drama and music instructors beautifully directed the show.

Lucy gazes, entranced, at Schroeder, singing, "I think the way you play the piano is nice!"

Schroeder, Les Hazelton, latches onto an idea for his book report on "Peter Rabbit."

Gary Kennedy recruits time and patience to proof senior glossies.

John Webb works patiently on sports sections.

Ad manager, Bill Ostrum, goes over records and receipts brought in by the many students.

"A Whirlpool of Youth . . ." our theme for this 1972 yearbook, exemplifies the changes which are evident in the youth culture today. We have tried to portray these many changes throughout the book's 200 pages.

In order to accurately capture the "New Youth," we found it necessary to employ new methods. Thus we feel that an explanation is necessary so that these new techniques will not be misunderstood.

The bright yellow cover is a break with tradition, as all prior yearbooks have had the school colors, maroon and gold, included in the cover design. We feel that it is not necessary for these colors to appear on the cover.

The inside cover also presents quite a startling change. Its purpose is to illustrate the student's problems in HIS Whirlpool of Youth. It holds meaning for Lincoln students, all members of the community . . . and the world. Although such issues as drugs, crime, and sex are usually ignored or put out of perspective by numerous individuals who prefer to remain blind to their impacts on society, we feel that they are part of the new generation and should be included along with the other issues.

Another section which might create some misunderstanding is the way in which we deal with the various clubs. We eliminated the traditional posed pictures completely. Instead, we used action shots of those clubs that performed some duty or held some type of activity. We thought we could better represent Lincoln by what Lincoln students really do. If a club was actively involved in projects throughout the year, it was included—if not, it was ignored. Posed pictures were used in the sports sections, however, because we feel that all these people were deeply involved in a very important part of our school.

Another conflict might arise concerning the undergraduate division. This year we used much smaller pictures in order to save space which could better be used.

Some new aspects that we hope are not controversial were also initiated into the book. Use of the tinted picture in the introduction and other sections of the book was one new technique. We also used the filmstrip effect in an attempt to add a slightly different dimension. Also included is a different concept in the advertising section. We tried to feature some Lincoln students in the ads, and we hope that next year's book will contain even more. A new outlook towards academics will also set an example too, as we successfully eliminated the "mug-shot" pictures of the faculty. Making use of the resume' will add a little more meaning to the individual. A new system of layout designs were initiated this year, mainly through the patience of two very dedicated girls, Kathy Huffman and Diane Pascuzzi.

We would like to especially thank Pete Koons who spent so much time preparing the academics section. His dedication and ability as a photographer have been greatly appreciated. We would like to thank the two girls already mentioned, Diane and Kathy, who worked so hard. Special thanks go to John Webb for all his help in the sports sections. Two boys really deserve a lot of credit, Gary Kennedy and Duane Conrey, who were responsible for the undergraduate and senior sections. They spent many tedious hours arranging and pasting hundreds of pictures.

In addition, recognition should be awarded to junior Dan Laurence, who freely offered his skills in photography, although he is not enrolled in journalism.

We would especially like to thank our advisor, Mr. Henry Sanders. Although our philosophies are miles apart, he wanted a good and truthful yearbook as much as we did. We are sure that every member of the staff respects and admires him.

We would like to thank all the other students and teachers who helped us throughout the school year. Their aid and confidence have been greatly appreciated.

Sincerely grateful,
Tim Anderson and Ken Allen

LITERARY SECTION

Students enrolled in the Creative Writing classes under the direction of Mr. Nic Dowd, have been working to express their feelings through poetry. For many students, writing is not only a way to convey ideas to others, but also is a means of self-understanding. The following poems reflect on a few of the many facets of youth. Described as seen through differing eyes are school, love, childhood, and people.

ESCAPEE

*Student no. 083312
Silently screaming
Begging for release —
Not just parole.*

*Student no. 083312
Suffocating, flailing for air
For room to be free to reflect
to grow
to encounter life.*

*Like a cash register, a computer
Adds and subtracts
Until it knows one's potential, one's intelligence.*

*Graded and totaled, I yearn to shout,
"083312—Not suitable material for programming."*

*Then they would whisper about me:
"Mentally unbalanced, broke up, Couldn't take the strain of It."
They wouldn't see that it was "It"
That couldn't take the strain of me.*

GREEN WORMS—MONDAY THRU FRIDAY

*My desk i sit at is hard and cold.
Just like everything else
i've confronted today and even the old cheap table top is corroded by the frenzied hand of a little green dot-maker.
and as i sit here and squirm and ache,
i wonder,
if i will ever find simplicity again?*

ODE TO MOBILE UNIT SIX

Sitting here in our individual square chairs writing on our properly proportioned desks we are like butterflies captured inside a glass jar.

*We have enough to survive on but what we really long to do is to be free
like the butterfly to unfold and create.*

Ruth Coverdale

I'M GLAD I'VE GOT YOU

*I'm glad I've got you
'Cause you don't care
when I say something stupid like I do sometimes.
Or when I trip and fall
over my ever present feet,
at parties and places
when people are looking.*

*I'm glad I've got you Cause you understand when gum gets caught in my hair,
and I choke on my popcorn.
And you have to slap me
on the back,
when you should be slapping me
in the face,
for all the embarrassment
and confusion,
that seems to travel with me.*

*I'm glad I've got you
'Cause you always know
the right things to say and do when I don't,
and you always make me
feel important,
although I really know,
I'm not, and you are so,
I'm glad I've got you.*

Valerie Hall

BOYFRIEND

*I regret
That all my children
Will know you only
From your page
In my scrapbook
As a boy
With a cowlick
And wild eyes
Holding mom's hand,
As a football hero
With newspaper clippings
And faded photographs
Bounding for a touchdown pass,
As a boyfriend
Their mother knew once Before she loved dad.*

*I pity
All my unborn children
Who will never remember
More than pictures
Of your smiles
For their mother
Captured so much more of you
Than the camera.*

Marcia Zarley

GRIN

*Mr. Doolittle,
Chemistry teacher,
Thinks it odd for me
To be delirious
Over empirical formulas
When actually
I'm recollecting
Peppermint Certs kisses,
Lacy Valentine cards,
And snugger than teddy bear hugs.*

*Conspicuously Revealing is the fact
Ionic bonds are hardly comical
And even
Mr. Doolittle suspects
I don't grin for chemistry
But for you.*

Marcia Zarley

CANDY KISSES

*Somebody tell me
That what I'm doing is wrong,
That Hellfire and God's eye
Are hidden under blankets
Ready to eat me up
When morals go to sleep with Natural sensations.*

*Swear that the sky will fall
If I touch you too much
And don't want to go home.
Strike me with lightning
If I should forget that Snowy sheets for adults,
Candy kisses for children,
And we're between the chocolateness
Of child-woman, child-man.*

Marcia Zarley

LOOKING FOR YOU TO FIND ME

For seven days and seven nights I found myself trickling down your roof, floating through your rain trough, and sinking into your fathers soil. You stepped on me with your big red goloshes, you made a pie of me, and you sold me to your playmates. I fell for you, trickled and floated for you and was hoping you'd save me on a rainy day.

John Rafdal

FADING SUNS

*When I was a little girl
I created a picture, finger-paint style,
Of a garden with flowers in reds, yellows, and purples,
With a sun grinning madly in the top corner,
And lines of yellow sun rays coming down on the flowers.
That was a painting of my life.*

*But now some things have changed.
Life isn't all gardens and flowers.
And I can't even find the sun,
Much less make him smile.*

Carol Pumphrey

HAPPINESS

*True happiness lies not in big cars,
or money in the bank
But in a smile
of a child trusting
A child full of love, believing and holding in his mind
The answers to all the problems of today.*

Tim Anderson

PETER PAN FANTASY

*Never grow up. Refuse.
Refuse
To leave behind
Barefeet on spring's first day.
Remember and wonder
At butterflies wings, ant hills, puppies,
And blue skies.
Don't abandon Soaring kites and roller skates.
Save
Your childhood dreams and
We will fly
To Never-Never Land
And build
A happily
Ever After.*

Carol Pumphrey

SUNSHINE

*I've only seen sunshine once.
It was orange.
It didn't really shine
It wasn't all that hot
In fact it was cold.
It doesn't start to burn
Until you swallow it.*

Bill Morlan

loneliness

POEM ON PAGE TWO

*Sometimes,
People analyze
Poems.
Tear them apart
To find hidden Meaning.
Sometimes,
Poems aren't meant
To be torn apart.
There is no
Hidden meaning.
Sometimes,
There is no meaning.
Sometimes,
There is not even
A poem.
Sometimes
People analyze Poems.
Maybe,
Sometimes,
People ought to Analyze People . . .*

MIRRORS

Knowing a person—a parent, a boyfriend, a team mate—is like wandering through an amusement park's mirror maze; the image that is reflected a thousand different ways in the walls of glass has the same face, only new refractions. A person, like the mirror faces, has myriad moods and emotions. The intriguing aspect of this is that people can be banshees one moment and Santa Claus the next.

Marcia Zarley

A TRIP TO THE BODY SHOP

*I think my mind
Is having a power failure
It just doesn't work.
I might need an overhaul.*

*All the little people
From Fantastic Voyage
Are checking out
My wiring.
Looking for short circuits.
Checking for burnt fuses.
While I sit
And stare at my desk.*

*Then everything registers
Gears start turning,
I am informed
That the fuse
For my cerebrum
Was blown.*

Must have been Saturday night.

*They hand me the bill.
Thirty dollars for parts.
Fifty dollars for labor.
A man can't afford to think
These days.*

Bill Morlan

LOOKING FOR NORMALITY

*I'm an abnormal everyday person
It used to bother me a lot
Until I discovered that we were all Abnormal everyday people
Which is quite normal.*

In the constant struggle to adapt and grow in a changing world, great improvements in Lincoln's academic structure have been brought about, opening new thresholds of learning in our whirlpool of youth.

Innovations in both building facilities and course structure have been initiated to meet the needs of the students.

A new science and art wing has been added on the south of the building to accommodate an ever-increasing enrollment. The new addition, although not completed for use this year, will be ready to take on its capacity of 300 students next fall.

The first floor of the structure will encompass a progressive new suite of art rooms, and the second floor will house an advanced science complex. Other new facilities include two additional mobile units to increase the capacity of ever-growing Lincoln.

Lincoln has undergone quite a metamorphosis in academic structure this year. The emphasis in new course development has been placed on the individual student and his needs.

The changes they must come new devices, new techniques Corresponding to all — but yet to benefit the individual
In The Whirlpool of Youth . . .

The process of learning
throughout, throughin—
Encompassing the minds—
the hearts and the soul
Of The Whirlpool of Youth . . .

As we seek out the knowledge the world and society has provided
Let us not forget — ever the learning we did inside ourselves
everlasting . . .

In past years, Seniors have been the only ones in the English workshop, consisting of various reading, writing, and literature courses. Due to its success, juniors were able to take part in this opportunity instead of the regular English Program, with a minimum of one class and a maximum of three. It is hopeful that this great opportunity will be available for the sophomores next fall.

Also a new course, Reading Improvement, has been added to the English curriculum. The course was initiated to meet the specific needs of students who want to improve their reading speed, improve their reading comprehension or to do both. The class accommodates students who have many levels of reading ability and the students progress at their own speed. In order to help more students, the class provides various options. It can be taken as a full time subject, as a partial credit course, or as a laboratory course.

Up tight about choosing the right college?

Make your choice Grand View College, the right on place to go.

Where you go for your college education is one of the most important decisions you'll be making.

So choose carefully. Consider . . . 2 and 3 year programs, faculty personally interested in each student, modern classrooms, fully accredited liberal arts and pre-professional curriculum, and reasonable tuition.

In other words Grand View offers a quality education you can afford.

No need to be up tight when you make your decision.

Get the story on the now college; talk with our director of admissions.

THERE'S ROOM
BENEATH THE

If you've reached a point in life where a career decision must be made, think it over carefully. It could be the most important decision you make in your life. Before you make that decision, consider Equitable of Iowa.

In the past 100 years Equitable of Iowa has grown and expanded to meet the times. We're still growing, faster than ever, and would like you to come and grow with us. We offer all of the modern advantages of working for a large company, group life and health insurance, job security and generous vacations. Yet when you work for us you're more than just an employee, you're part of the Equitable family.

The life insurance industry is an American giant and one of the most vital industries in the nation's economy. Its work is essential to millions of Americans and their families. Equitable of Iowa has over $2½ billion of life insurance in force making it one of the major life companies.

The work of Equitable of Iowa involves many kinds of jobs requiring many kinds of qualifications. Advancement is limited only by your ability and initiative. If Equitable of Iowa sounds interesting to you stop into our personnel office, 1105 Equitable Building. Ask for Pat Bush. She'll be glad to discuss career possibilities with you. After she does you may well decide to grow with us . . . at Equitable of Iowa.

YOUNKERS Satisfaction Always

As part of Younkers firm belief in the young people of today, a program is offered each year for the Des Moines area schools . . . TEEN BOARD for junior and senior girls and ADVISORY BOARD for junior and senior boys. These young people, selected to represent their schools, are chosen for leadership qualities, high scholastic standings, personal recommendations from school administrators and evaluation from members of the retiring boards, plus their interest and ability in retail and fashion. They participate in special fashion shows during the year, give talks in their schools and to other groups on good grooming, publish a monthly newsletter and work in various junior departments each Saturday. Younkers salutes the representatives from Lincoln High School for a job very well done.
